

The Calgary Events Committee of the Alberta Professional Planners Institute present:

Resilience of The City
November 9 at the Dutton Theatre (6 to 8pm)

In Celebration of the World Town Planning Day (WTPD) activities in our community, APPI is pleased to host a free panel discussion about resilience at The City of Calgary.

The panel features Chris Arthurs, RPP, Director of Resilience & Infrastructure Calgary (100 Resilient Cities); Dick Ebersohn, Program Manager, Climate Change (Climate Change Adaptation Strategy); Christina Fuller, Sustainability Consultant, Calgary Growth Strategies (ImagineCALGARY, 2020 Sustainability Direction).

The panelists will share their findings regarding the importance of adopting a collaborative working model to advance the resilience conversation at The City of Calgary. Current activities and alignment of City of Calgary efforts regarding climate change, resilience and sustainability will be discussed.

Calgary was recently named as one of the Rockefeller Foundation's 100 Resilient Cities. Calgary joins three other Canadian cities in the 100 Resilient Cities Network. This event will help preview the 2017 Canadian Institute of Planners (CIP) June 17-20, 2017 conference, which will focus on Building Resilience.

Join us Wednesday, November 9th at the John Dutton Theatre from 6-8 pm (doors open at 5:30pm). Admission is free – all are welcome. Light refreshments will be provided.

This event qualifies for structured learning credits – 2 LUs.
