APPI Legacy Award, Student Education Scholarships, Student Conference Awards and Student Essay Award Announcements

The following recipients of the awards were announced at the Volunteer Appreciation and Awards Celebration on May 2, 2024.

APPI Legacy Award Announcement

The Legacy Award recognizes and supports the great work being done by members who are engaged in research of emerging practices and innovation in the advancement of excellence in planning, and/or who attend and present at a national or international conference.

Congratulations Lilit Houlder, RPP!

Lilit will utilize the award to research on the unique challenges faced in our northern communities, where different geographical and cultural factors may come into play than what may be expected in typical Canadian cities.

APPI Student Education Scholarships Announcement

APPI annually recognizes and awards the achievements of students entering or enrolled in post-secondary institutions with an interest in planning as a profession.

The Student Education Scholarship is intended to provide monetary assistance to students for tuition, research, books or other academic expenses.

Thoreau Goodman, Master of Science, Urban and Regional Planning, University of Alberta

Bradley Sarandi, Master of Science, Urban and Regional Planning, University of Alberta

Jaden Macyk, Undergraduate, Bachelor of Arts, Planning, University of Alberta

APPI Student Conference Award Announcement

The Student Conference Award is intended to provide monetary assistance to students to attend a planning conference.

Nathan Galan, Master of Planning, School of Architecture, Planning & Landscape, University of Calgary

Elise Beaton, Undergraduate, Bachelor of Science, Urban Planning, University of Alberta

APPI Student Essay Award Announcement

The Student Essay Award was established in 2020, in honour of David Klippenstein (1994-2020), and in recognition of his outstanding contribution to planning in northern, indigenous, and rural communities across Canada, and in appreciation of David's passion for sharing of his knowledge in this planning realm.

The Student Essay Award is intended to cultivate students' interest and further study in the realm of northern, indigenous and planning, which is of paramount relevance within APPI's jurisdiction.

Jaden Macyk, Undergraduate, Bachelor of Arts, Planning, University of Alberta

Congratulations to the Recipients!
