Eligible CPL Learning Opportunities that can be logged

Regulated members are required to report their Continuous Professional Learning (CPL) yearly by December 31st. The CPL Guide and the National Continuous Planning Learning Standards for the Planning Profession in Canada are two documents that provide clear requirements and examples.

- Members have great flexibility in acquiring and logging CPL opportunities including those offered by APPI, CIP and external providers, as long as that learning develops competence in the core competencies for the planning profession.
- Volunteering on boards, committees or task force
- Mentoring and sponsoring Candidate members
- Reading planning related materials for example Plan Canada or PLAN NW
- Taking University courses that enhance your planning competence
- Attending events, conferences, workshops and participating in webinars

Additional learning opportunities may be found:
