

APPI Volunteer Recognition Award

APPI VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR
AWARD - Oliver Green, RPP

The Volunteer of the Year Award is awarded to a member who has made a significant contribution to the Institute or the profession in 2019. The recipient is to have made an outstanding contribution to the Institute serving on an APPI Committee or initiative or representing APPI on a specific project or initiative at the national level.

After completing the Bachelor of Community Design program at Dalhousie University in 2010, Oliver moved to Alberta, where he spent the first two years of his professional career gaining valuable rural experience with the Municipal District of Opportunity. He then secured a position with the City of Edmonton, with whom he is now a Principal Planner of Regional Development Economic and Environmental Sustainability. In 2016, Oliver joined the APPI Edmonton Events Committee and in that capacity, Oliver has demonstrated leadership skills and the willingness to contribute to the advancement of the Institute and planning profession. He continues to assist in coordinating local planning events in the Edmonton region, and was instrumental in proposing and organizing, an information session for Candidate members seeking RPP certification. Oliver is also a key participant and contributor to the success of the annual University of Alberta Student Meet & Greet, where students and professional planners come together to share their experiences with professional planning. Oliver is a champion of the planning profession and the environment. He is always willing to sacrifice his time and is a pleasure to work with, exemplifying that “planning is a profession of relationships”. Oliver makes the lives of all he touches, a whole lot brighter. His enthusiasm and positive outlook are contagious.
